Subject: LEPC Conference

Hey Trevor -

Steve and I were discussing the LEPC Conference and the pieces I have asked him to cover on Friday morning - the Blacktail Creek release, Bridger Pipeline break, Bakken Crude study results, and now, the Gold King/Animas River situation. (We may be revising which of those topics he chooses to cover rather than all four.) It occurred to us that much of the GK/Animas takeaways that really affect LEPCs are the ways the locals, state and Federal partners ultimately worked together in a highly-charged situation (politically, emotionally, etc.) There are certainly 'good things' and 'opportunities for improvement' that can be taken from this situation - would you be willing to help with that piece of the presentation? I'm not talking slides or anything - just stand up and speak from your perspective on some of the lessons learned?

That's what I wanted to talk with you about this afternoon - wasn't sure I wanted to put it in writing. No pressure. Just asking your thoughts.

Thanks!
Carol
